Dear Bro. Shepherd - Some time ago I sent you a notice of your "Handbook on Baptism" and trust that it was received. If you publish another edition there are some other pointed passages that ought to be added. I noticed that the printers put "Leimbrosch" for Limborch in every place where the name of this author occurs. Have this corrected if you get out another edition.

Uncle Minors Stories

This is a delightful book and one calculated to do great good. While the incidents related are highly entertaining they are so presented as to teach in most every case some important moral or religious truth and even to inculcate, in a simple and natural way correct conceptions of the gospel of Christ as opposed to false views of religion. The narratives, as the author tells ^{us} in his Preface are not fictitious compositions, but set forth real incidents selected from ~~the~~ his own "experience and observation." Let this little volume be multiplied by the million. It deserves success infinitely beyond ^{that of} the popular novel denominated Bern Haru.

Bros. Metcalfe,

I received your letter a day or two since and "Under Minor's ^{to} Hours" some time ago. Have intended ever since the book came to send you my estimate of its merits. I am glad that your letter this morning has presented my doing before you. You will see on another leaf what I have to say concerning the work. I trust that it will meet with a tremendous sale as it deserves to do. May you live long my brother to serve the Master as efficiently as you have for years past.

Yours most fraternally
