PROFESSOR DAVID BURKUM ACCEPTS NEW MINISTRY CHALLENGE

After five years of faithful service as professor of church music, David Burkum has accepted a call to the Howard Lake Church of Christ, Howard Lake, Minnesota, as minister. He will begin serving there in June.

During his tenure with the college, Professor Burkum was innovative in his approach to developing a quality church music program and creative in directing NCC's choral groups and gospel music teams. Most of the programs sung by the "Enthusiastics" were his original compositions.

In his letter of resignations, Brother Burkum reflected on his ministry at NCC:

"The past five years of my ministry have been the fullest and richest I have known. I have had the privilege of being part of a meaningful and significant purpose that has both taxed and contributed to my personal energies and abilities. I know that God's will for my life has been served and directed during my time at NCC."

Accepting this call will also allow him additional opportunity to expand his music ministry. Reflecting on these possibilities, he says:

"In addition to the challenge of local church ministry, I am hopeful that this opportunity will allow more time for the nurturing of my family and for my music writing. Eventually, I intend to give concerts and/or music seminars one or two times a month. I should also be able to increase the amount of music I submit for publication."

I praise the Lord for my time at NCC and look forward to what lies ahead! Your prayers and support are appreciated greatly."

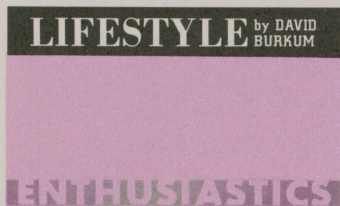

Thank you, David, for leading Nebraska Christian College into new avenues of leadership in music ministry education and service. Though we will miss your being a part of our college family, we know the kingdom will reap the benefit of your freedom to pursue more active involvement in music composition, local church ministry, and being the nurturing husband and father you wish to be. May God richly bless you and Cheri as you begin your new venture of faith.

MISSIONS PROFESSOR UPDATE

Good news! The Phil Casey family expects to be relocated from Santiago, Chile, to Norfolk by August 1 to assume new responsibilities as NCC's first full-time professor of missions.

The decision to call Brother Casey is an act of faith on the part of the college. A faculty position at the college costs about $30,000, including salary and benefits, teaching aids and supplies, secretarial assistance, and assorted other expenses. We are appealing to friends and supporters of the Caseys and our college friends who have encouraged us to call a missions faculty member to underwrite the missions professor's costs with special designated contributions.

We certainly believe that Brother Casey's decision to teach at Nebraska Christian College will make an expansion of his ministry to the world. Now he will have opportunity to recruit and train what we believe will be a growing number of men and women who will take the Gospel to the world. We are convinced that God is able to do through His people whatever is necessary when His people do His will.

Please continue to include the college and the Caseys in your prayers. Special designated contributions may be made toward the "Missions Professor" by marking your gift accordingly.

We invite you to celebrate the redemption we have through Christ by attending one of these uplifting musical presentations by the NCC Choraleers.

COLLEGE HAS NEED FOR TRAILER

Jeff Ballard "stuffing" his luggage into the back of the van for a basketball trip.

The picture above tells the story of a need the college has for an enclosed heavy duty trailer for hauling luggage and music equipment behind our vans. Since we literally ran the wheels off our last trailer, we have had to stuff into the back of the van or in roof-carriers on top what we used to haul in the trailer. Occasionally, we have to rent a trailer for some trips.

Perhaps one of our readers has a used trailer to sell or donate. If so, please contact Tom Foust, our business manager.

STAFF MEMBER OF THE YEAR

Linda Lu Lloyd

At a special assembly of the students, faculty, staff, and trustees last December 9, Linda Lu Lloyd was presented the first "Staff Member of the Year" award. Linda Lu has been bookkeeper for the college since 1977.

This past year, she put in numerous extra hours getting our financial bookkeeping records onto computer. Whenever there was work to be completed, Linda Lu saw that it was done even if that meant evening and Saturday work. She demonstrates a servant's heart in all her relationships.

Thank you, Linda Lu, for your faithful service to the college these past ten years and for your "extra mile" tasks during 1986.

For nine years, we have concentrated in these annual seminars on how to help others who are hurting. This year, we are going to focus on the "helper" and his/her family.
