

LORGNETTE

Quarterly Review of Children's and Young Adults' Books

Author

McDonald, Jill

Illustrator

Illustrated by the author

Reviewer

Martinez, Shan

Pages

Unpaged

Price

$12.99

ISBN

978-0-593-56822-4

Publisher & Date

Doubleday, 2023

Classification

Nonfiction (595.7)

Grade Level

3-5

Book Review: EXPLORING INSECTS

**

EXPLORING INSECTS is a beautifully illustrated book about insects. Each opening is a study of an insect with basic statistics listed on a side panel, a question for the reader to contemplate, and lots of information with lovely illustrations. For example, readers begin with bees, then butterflies, and then earthworms. Why earthworms? The author points out that you might think they are insects, but they are actually invertebrates. The book continues with ants, cicadas, grasshoppers, crickets, and more. Readers will learn all the basics, with some little-known insects and facts thrown in for good measure. Every reader will learn something new from this book. Well done!

