Herald of Truth television presents answers to Man's search for meaning in a new series of full-color films now available for television showing.

Each of the 26 new Herald of Truth episodes in "The Search" is produced in full color and runs 28 minutes, 30 seconds. Eight episodes in this series explore one of today's most frustrating problems — the home: its members, its relationships and its fulfillment in light of the Biblical message.

No. 961 "He Arose"
Jesus is the goal and guide in man's search for truth and meaning in life. Traditional arguments against Christ's resurrection are cast aside when compared with historical fact and personal faith. His resurrection is the heart of Christianity and the key to man's hope and salvation.

No. 962 "A Matter of Life or Death"
Man's fear of death and his search for eternal life are the starting points in this examination of physical and spiritual death. Eternal life and reassurance are the promise of God . . . the good news of the Gospel can begin today.

No. 963 "The God of Self-Indulgence"
America is in the throes of a sexual revolution. One can truly say the ancient gods of Baal and Eros in Rome, Greece and among the Israelites of Canaan, have been resurrected. The promises of God bring a message of hope for those who wrongly seek security in self-gratification.

No. 964 "This Way Out"
Bertrand Russell called drunkenness "temporary suicide" and from this stems alcoholism. Alcoholism — a tragic escape mechanism that leaves a trail of broken homes and broken lives to more than 9 million people in the U.S. This episode probes alcoholism and the alcoholic's search for stability, security and happiness — and discovers that "this way out" is really no way out at all.

No. 965 "What's A Friend For"
Personal relationships affect us all. Friendship is the most effective way to tear down barriers of cultural and social backgrounds. To live fuller, more complete lives in love and friendship, man must first understand himself and know God, the Father.
No. 966 “Out-moded. For those who search for meaning in Today's youth say that marriage is out-dated and

No. 973 “In Worlds Not Realized” Times are changing. Man is now hurtling through space and time. Yet when he searches for understanding, man turns to the Bible; when he searches for common ways of expressing need, equality, vulnerability and strength, he turns to the Bible; when he strives to describe human relationships, he turns to the Bible. In the turmoil of transition, man must be open to the widest opportunities, “moving about in worlds not realized.” He can be — through Christ.

No. 979 “Over the Mountains of the Moon”
The Broadway play, “Man from La Mancha” portrays man’s need for an ideal even if the ideal is “an impossible dream.” Man’s “ideal,” however, should be something more eternal: the restoration of Christianity to its original vitality. To seek what seems unattainable, to cross “over the mountains of the moon, down the valley of the shadow” to establish the reality of Christ and His New Testament church, is our challenge and ideal.

No. 980 “Yesterday, Today and Forever”
As modern man quests for firmer foundations and lasting values in a world of sin, his every jealousy, every lust, every illusion of selfishness and greed is mirrored in the timeless pages of the Bible. What “there is nothing permanent Iut change itself,” “Jesus Christ is the same yesterday and today and forever.” (Heb. 13:8).

No. 981 “And God Created Man” — 2 Man’s search for identity and purpose in life is complicated by a maze of modern developments.
Advances in science, medicine and technology prompt today’s “enlightened” to ask, “Who needs God?”
Above this mass of confused thinking, God is still Creator, Preserver, Sustainer and Judge.

No. 982 “Jesus of Nazareth: Fact or Fiction?” Did Jesus Christ really exist? Many people are bewitched about the basic question of a man named Jesus who actually walked the earth. But both Biblical and non-Biblical evidence provides ample proof of the historical existence of the man. . . . Jesus of Nazareth,
No. 983 “More Than Just A Man”
The historical person of Jesus stands proven. But what of the other claims . . . that He was not only man, but God? This man Jesus of Nazareth was truly more than just a man, He was and is today, the Son of God.

No. 984 “The God Who Hears”
Today, communication is vital. But man has neglected and forgotten the most important communication of all between man and God . . . prayer. As man doubts the existence of this communication and questions its effectiveness, the promises of God do indeed establish that Jehovah is “The God Who Hears.”

No. 985 “God’s Hot Line”
In creation, man was not meant to be alone. We were created for fellowship with one another and for fellowship with God, our Creator. Ten basic essentials strengthen prayer, our direct contact with the throne of mercy — God’s “hot line.”

No. 986 “The Search for Truth”
All of life is spent in search for truth. Prejudices and social pressures can obscure facts and distort viewpoints. To fully develop and find a fulfilling life, each man must examine his attitudes toward God’s word, the Bible.
