There is counteraction involved in almost every decision in the life of modern man.

"Worlds in Conflict," newest in the series produced by Herald of Truth, explores these opposing views and pressures in depth. Discussions by Batsell Barrett Baxter concern such vital issues as scientific theory and the Bible on the subject of the creation of life; the new morality; man's attempt to place himself on a secular throne of self-indulgence; and the question of the reality of God as put forth in the "Is God Dead?" movement.

In addition to these discussions by Baxter, this color series features interpretive scripture reading by Robert Wilson Holton, host-narrator of the program, and filmed transition sequences of dramatically beautiful and compelling nature scenes.
"The introduction of full color into television filming is exerting a dynamic influence on the industry. Stations report that in four short months, the number of color sets in their area has increased from three to ten percent. The percentages are expected to spiral upwards as time passes, which means that in a very short while—months, almost, the origination of black and white programs will become obsolete. The producers of Herald of Truth, recognizing the opportunities and challenges of these changes, are not only utilizing color in their programming but are also making use of other techniques designed to increase effectiveness and impact. The new series 'Worlds In Conflict' continues the effort to weld creative talent and technical perfection into a dynamic, attention-getting whole, designed to bring Bible truths as old as time itself to a stirring, restless world."

MORALITY IN THE 20TH CENTURY

The universal solution to human problems may be found only in the acceptance of the Bible as the inspired Word of God. True religion, in the last analysis, rests on a divine standard of measurement. Man's own desires and plans cannot be relied upon for guidance, nor can be depend on his own religious experiences. The case for ultimate truth rests on the divinity and inspiration of the Bible. Its inspiration is attested by its lofty purposes, inimitable style, un paralleled objectivity, prophetic accuracy and its proven infallibility.

WHAT IS YOUR LIFE? A Look at Modern Man

Modern man's disregard for authority, lack of self-control, tendency to regard himself more highly than he should, etc., with an exponent of Paul's burning indictment (II Tim. 3:5). There are three simple sentences which present a formula for living, as measured by the one infallible guide. Beware of the one infallible guide.
